

AMENDMENT TO THE SPECIFICATION

Please insert the following paragraph beginning after page 10, line 16:

a' As described above, the invention focuses and is exclusively directed towards being able to “view” license agreement information directly juxtaposed to software product inventory or usage data. Also, it is clear from the foregoing that “license agreement information or data” describes textual information - not executable software as such. In other words, the “license agreement data” exists separate and apart from any license management software that controls the “execution” of or access to license software. That is, the “license agreement data or information” is data that does not control the software execution. The “agreement data” being correlated has to include this non-software-execution related data.
